Worship Services

Sundays at 9:15 a.m. and 11:00 a.m.

- Nov. 7th Peace in the House Rev. Carie Johnsen
Joanne Friday
- Rev. Johnsen will share the pulpit with Joanne Friday, a Dharma Teacher in the Tiep Hien Order of the Venerable Thich Nhat Hanh. They will explore the work of peace and justice as they highlight the work of the Unitarian Universalist Service Committee (UUSC). The Faith-in-Action chairs, Rebecca Dorr and Jenny McKendry will lead the time for all ages during both services and distribute the UUSC Guest at Your table Boxes.
- Nov. 14th Church Life as Spiritual Practice Rev. Carie Johnsen
- Membership is a journey of becoming and belonging. This service will consider engagement with congregational life as a spiritual practice. This service will include the New Member Ceremony. Please come to meet our newest members as we celebrate their journey into membership.
- Nov. 21st Harvest Communion Rev. Carie Johnsen
Multigenerational Team
- As we enter the season of Thanksgiving, we gather as a community to share a common meal of thanks on Friday evening. During the Sunday morning service members and friends will participate in a UUSC tradition—the harvest communion of apple cider and pumpkin.
- Nov. 28th Grace Matters Rev. Marcel Duhamel

A Faith Journey...

On Saturday, Oct. 16th, I facilitated the annual Worship Arts Retreat. Members of the worship committee, music committee and our five pianists were invited to attend this four hour exploration of Sunday Service. Two staff members, Doug Barley, Choir Director and Karen Fisk, Director of Religious Exploration also attended.

Together we reflected upon the Sunday services offered during the previous church year and shared personal insights into the question: Why do I/we worship?

As one might expect in a Unitarian Universalist congregation, the very question of the language we chose to use entered into the conversation around noon time. We closed our time together by the-writing of a worship arts covenant.

Karen Fisk asked the very important question, “As the religious leader of this congregation, what is your philosophy of worship?” I responded by giving the worship arts team a brief answer; and then said, I would need further time to articulate a more thoughtful answer. I believe we talked about this only briefly at that very busy candidating week back in March of 2009. I decided to bring my articulated philosophy to all of you in the form of a mission and vision statement.

My worship vision is to co-create relevant, diverse, prophetic, visceral, healing, informative, stimulating, multigenerational, and multicultural transformative worship.

I enter into this process of co-creating with divine mystery, serendipitous creativity and the members and friends of this congregation. In the end the mystery of the hour has the final word. What happens between the pulpit and the pew is ineffable—indescribable, beyond words. You bring who you are, I bring you the best of what I have to offer each week, and then what happens at 9:15 and 11:00 unfolds.

As the worship leader at UUC, I strive to create opportunity for encounters with the big questions, ultimate or spiritual reality hold a space for people to bring their whole self – joys, sorrows, frustrations, laughter hold the broken hearted in compassion and care explore what it means to be human – help people to grow into and be their best selves respond to the suffering in us and in the world inspire people to take action to free the world from injustice and oppression stimulate and educate an inquiring mind nurture connections with others and spirit build and deepen connections within the community

This articulation of my worship vision and mission lives in conversation with your individual and collective hopes and dreams for our time together on Sunday morning. Therefore it is incomplete, evolving and growing. It is a living philosophy that is open to dialogue, shaped by experience and adjusted in light of new understandings and information.

Please let me know what you think so that your vision may shape our worship future.

In Faith, Carie

Director of Religious Exploration.....

Ritual is a way to remove the barriers of everyday life and enter quickly into a sacred space. A song, for instance, or a prayer, can take you immediately to a place of worship, of safe, comforting feeling, an enduring memory.

It takes time and repetition for ritual to become integral to anyone's recollection of worship. And, in a practice of faith like Unitarian Universalism, we think hard about what is worthy of ritual, what is worthy of repetition, what is worthy as a symbol we would hold onto over time and space.

The props of worship are no less powerful. I remember a fellow DRE talking about being homesick while in the Peace Corps, then spotting something on a table in a crowded marketplace. She said with some drama, it was like a beacon light illuminated this homemade, unique but unmistakable chalice! She found a symbol of her faith far from home and it brought her comfort and joy.

The chalice was not adopted as a symbol for Unitarian Universalism until after World War II, when Unitarian aid workers there required a symbol to help refugees know their truck was safe to approach for food and medical supplies. The Unitarian Service Committee asked Hans Deutsch, an Austrian artist, to create a symbol for them. To Deutsch, the chalice image had connotations of sacrifice and love. At our church we talk about the chalice being the vessel of our church, holding the fuel of our collective energy as the candle and the mystery of our spirituality as the flame. That is a worthy symbol for its historic and contemporary images.

Deciding on ritual, repeated prayers or phrases, hymns, ways of worship is an organic process in some ways and fully intentional in others. When the RE Committee meets together with interested congregants for our RE Retreat, we focus on what we want our children and youth to know by the time they bridge out of our children and youth RE program. Not least on our list is that we want them to know the comfort and solace of a faith home. There are a number of ways to create that place of comfort and solace, among them the use of ritual, the familiar, the expected, the known.

We always light our chalice the same way in Young UU Worship, we always sing the Old Hundredth, we always take time to pray and be grateful for all that is good within us, among us and between us. We refer to the Seven Promises and Six Sources of Unitarian Universalism. That is our foundation, a place of security, from there we can explore with a diversity and variety that opens our minds.

Our church year also offers opportunity for some sameness as well as some variety. As we enter into the fall and winter holiday season, our Minister, the RE Committee, the Worship Arts Team and I contemplate our Thanksgiving and Winter Holiday offerings with a mind toward honoring tradition and stretching our collective minds. What we have "always done" is not necessarily what we will do, but no change will be entered into without careful thought and sensitivity toward our goals of offering our congregation a place of solace and safety, and a place of growth and call to action.

For all that is good within us, among us and between us, I am grateful for the opportunity this church community offers our children, youth, young adults, adults, and elders to explore what it means to worship and create sacred space, and enduring memories, together.

Yours in faith,

Karen

New Member Welcoming Ceremony

Sunday, November 14th, 2010

9:15 a.m. & 11 a.m. services

These two newcomer and new member events are a way of celebrating those who have become members during the past few months, and also inviting those who have begun to be part of our community, to consider whether you might like to join at this time.

Membership is a way of participating more fully in the life of the congregation. Membership enables you to vote during congregational meetings, and to help shape the direction of our spiritual journey together. Members are invited to share responsibility for the congregation, through gifts of time and resources, as we participate in congregational life.

The evening of conversations with Rev. Carie Johnsen will include an opportunity to sign the membership book. The welcoming ceremony itself will be simple, including reciting your names, and inviting all of you to come forward to receive a small gift from the congregation.

Please R.S.V.P., if you would like to attend conversations with Rev. Carie Johnsen, become a member and/or be part of the service, by calling the office at 622-3232 or sending email to admin@augustauu.org, by Sunday, November 7th. Be sure to tell us which events you plan to attend, number of people attending and if you will need childcare the ages of your children.

Second Annual Pie Sale

Our Second Annual Pie Sale will be held on Saturday, November 20th, at Longfellow's Greenhouses on Puddledock Road in Manchester. Last year we sold a delicious variety of home made pies and earned $642. We hope to do as well this year. If you would like to bake one or more pies for this sale, please sign the sheet on the Fundraising Bulletin Board in the Fellowship Hall. Pies can be brought to the Harvest Dinner at the church the evening before the Sale or they can be delivered to Longfellow's the morning of the Sale. Every pie helps and is greatly appreciated. Our goal is to have 50 to sell.

UUCB COOKBOOK - RECIPE DEADLINE NOVEMBER 15th

We hope that everyone in the church will submit a favorite recipe for the Cookbook. If you haven't done this yet, please consider writing one out today. Recipe forms are available on the Fundraising Bulletin Board in the Fellowship Hall or you may email your recipes to Roberta Record at: record@2002.yahoo.com.
